Deaths this week, 32.

The grand jury will meet Monday.

Governor Porter returned from Richmond to-day.

The Citizens bank of Attica, was incorporated to-day, capital, $50,000.

Gov. Buckeye was here to-day for drunkenness and resisting an officer.

Mary Dacy, 51 Maple street, ill with small-pox, has been removed to the pest house.

Robert Melville, colored, was severely biten yesterday by a shepherd dog belonging to Joe Lowark.

John S. Dunham will preside in the criminal court, while Judge Norton is saving the country at Chicago.

Rev. William B. Boone, D. D., president of Kenyon college, will preach at St. Paul's cathedral to-morrow morning.

Katie Cahale is the name of the woman who lured to roughly at the hands of Henry, the Stambis and others night before last.

A bonfire on Noble street, near Ohio, built by the fire department last evening.

Out of the tens of thousands visiting against cholera, yesterday and last night, was but one case, that of John Koster.

The democratic state committee has rented rooms in the old Senate building for the headquarters which shortly be moved from the Cordis block.

Thomas P. Ryan, long and well known here, is visiting his friends in the city. He lives in Kansas city now, and is a very general, friendly man.

The New Church (Swedenborgian) Sunday-school will picnic at Broad Ripple on Tuesday next, leaving the church on North Alabama street at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Williamson, professor in the Medical college, will speak of heart disease as the effect of liquor, in the next temperance meeting at 4 p. m. to-morrow.

Gus Buschaupt, formerly associated with Herman, the undertaker, was found in an ally, yesterday, in an unconscious condition, and was removed to St. Vincent's hospital.

The son of Adolph Bauer, who resides at the corner of Broadway and Virginia avenue, was badly burned about the hands and face yesterday, by the premature explosion of powder.

In addition to Prof. J. H. Smart, the names of Prof. Lewis H. Jones, Prof. W. A.
Bell and Hon. John M. Rose are mentioned for the superintendent of the city schools.
Prof. Taylor will spend most of the summer here.

Mary E. Kimball, of New Hampshire, has been sent, in the federal court, against John W. Wilson, on notes, for $1,500, and for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of a mortgage on property in Fut-tess county.

The "tumble" between the water works and the paper mill, is giving away, owing to decay, and new frame work is to be put in next week. While it is undergoing, the water will be let out of the canal, remaining only one year.

A shed on Buchanan street, owned by G. H.
Bloom, was burned by an incendiary last night, losing with two threshing machines, Loss $500. An old abandoned house on St.
Clair street, near East, was also partially burned by the same agency, at the same hour.

Samuel Leffingwell, the agitator, was arrested last night by Special policeman H. H.
Kelly for assault. Mr. Kelly reports that Mr. Leffingwell met and attacked him with a cane without provocation. Leffingwell makes a similar charge against Kelly. A hearing will be had on the 8th.

Mr. Rachel Locke, for years a resident of the city, and her daughter, Miller, Mrs.
Watts and two children, now of Pasadena, California, are in the city visiting the family of Josiah Locke, corner of Ohio and Alabama streets. Mrs. Locke will be particularly remembered for her labors in behalf of sick and disabled children during the war.

John Henry, of Reno, was found by Patrolman Hazy, last night, in a sadly demoralized condition, minus his coat and bleeding from a severe cut in the face. This morning Henry reported that he had been beaten of $25 and a gold watch by a man beside his coat, but he has no recollection where he was nor who committed the robery. The supposition is that he was drugged and decoyed to one side.

The places of amusement which were open were well attended last night. At the theatre the Cooke & Weston Comedy company, with the old-time favorite F. G. White and Miss Mary Henry, of New England, played the "Chimney Corner" and "Toodles" to the great delight of the audience. Mr. White was warmly received by his friends and played with his usual spirit and effect. The same bill with some additions will be repeated tonight for a full band. The promised fireworks did not materialize.

MORE TEMPERANCE TALK.

The Prohibitionists Determined to Nominate a State and County Ticket, and a Candidate for Congress.

The chief action of the prohibitionists are determined not only to place a state ticket in the field, but to nominate a candidate for congressman and a full county ticket. The county convention will be held in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. on next Saturday.
The prohibitionists will use the name of sheriff in opposition to Major Rose, and the favorite candidates are John C. Woodard, an ex-army soldier and well known in the city of the peace, and Morton Hollingsworth, of Pike township. Woodard has been a member of the legislature for many years, and is much respected by the party. His attitude on the temperance question that he has no interest in the future of the state, but that he lacks the courage to come out fairly and squarely on one side or the other.

He has no faith whatever in the proposition to call a constitutional convention, but believes it is the silliest and most gayety subterfuge ever resorted to by any party to evade a real issue. Hollingsworth is not only a prohibitionist, but a greenbacker. A union between the two elements, and congress is contemplated, and will doubtless be effected. The prohibitionists claim credit for the election of Stanton J. Peale, two years ago, but they are opposed to him now because he never blushed for their support—insisting that his success was due to his popularity and his opponent's unpopularity—and they propose to let him see if he can get along without them this time. They also attribute the political revolution in Shelby county to the demor-alizing disaffection that existed there, but to the influence of the temperance element in both parties, to whom the wily play-man, upon English made his race, was thoroughly disaffected. In nominating separate tickets, the support of all active prohibition workers except J. A. Rose, E.
H. Reynolds and J. B. Conner is expected.
Even Colonel E. F. Ritter is relied upon to join the revolt.

Young Girl Assaulted.

Lula Hawkins, aged sixteen years, who is employed as a domestic by a family at Irvington, and whose father keeps a restaurant at No. 115 West Washington street, spent the Fourth among friends at Belmont, in which village her parents' family she was well known. When she returned to the city, she was overtaken by a young man with a horse and buggy, who volunteered to take her into the city. Although she had seen him often before, she was not acquainted with him, and hesitated about accepting his offer, but he insisted and she finally got into the buggy. Instead of coming to town, he then drove rapidly toward Mount Jackson, and, becoming suspicious of his conduct, she jumped out of the vehicle as he was about to enter the L. tracks. He followed and made an assault upon her, and her cries of "murder" attracted the attention of a family named Hedges, who went to her rescue. The young man drew a revolver and threatened to shoot her. He was then escorted her into the city, but when she reached her home, she found that the young man, who was named J. A. Rose, had disappeared. They then informed Bureau Quiley of the occurrence, and he inquired the girl's father and a search was instituted and she was found near the Union depot at an early hour this morning. She had not recovered from the excitement of the adventure, and gave no explanation, except that she did not want parents to know what had happened to her, and that she intended to go to Irvington before daylight.

Her father was torn and she was badly bruised. She could not tell her assailant's name, but as she knows him by sight, and as the Hedges family say they can identify him his arrest is probable.

All Aboard for Chicago.

The first delegation of the Indianapolis democracy left at 11 a. m. to-day for Chicago, by way of Kokomo and the Fairbanks.

RELIGION IN POLITICS.

And How they built the Church at Swampscott—A True Story of 1878 and a Incident in Politics.

Pending the caucus of the Ninth district at the secretary of state's office, last week several politicians were discussing the article on Election Frauds, which The News published a few days before.

"While you had your hand in, why didn't you tell about how they built the Methodist church at Swampscott?" said Mr. Staley, of the Frankfort Crescent.

The little city of Swampscott, which isn't its real name, is in the heart of the continent of which it is the metropolis is and always was unanimously democratic, and it has produced a long succession of politicians whose fame and fortunes may have been described by the but whose administration of affairs has been brilliantly successful. No interest has been too trifling for these advocate-leaders to conclude. There were two thousand men in Swampscott, and both of them have been entrusted with municipal powers. The negro vote is small, but the democratic leaders have captured it. The city is a very intelligent man in the city, and a very intelligent man in the city, and a chairman of a democratic convention, and devoted to selection of congressmen; and this year it is proposed to nominate him by the democrats for state senator. The county of Swampscott is a very intelligent man in the
